MASTERS IN COMPARATIVE FINANCIAL STUDIES (BY COURSEWORK)

Introduction

The aim of the programme is to develop students' financial management skills from the conventional and Islamic perspective. It provides students with both theoretical and applied concepts to develop necessary technical skills and integrate them within a strategic focus of any relevant organisation. Besides providing students with the conventional knowledge, in each module technical skills are taught from Islamic perspective as well, so that students make financial decisions within the limitations set by Islamic principles. Thus, the Masters in Comparative Financial Studies will increase student's knowledge and skills in financial management disciplines, while also exposing students to the Shariah guidelines in specific areas of finance. This programme focuses on analysing financial management theory and practice from various perspectives. The programme provides in-depth understanding of conventional and Shariah knowledge to prepare the students to specialise in conventional and Islamic finance.
Programme Outcomes

1. Ability to appraise knowledge in comparative financial management.

2. Ability to perform managerial skills relevant to the field of conventional and Islamic finance.

3. Ability to become scholars to contribute in enhancing the financial management theory and practice from an Islamic perspective.

4. Adhere to social, cultural, global and environmental responsibilities and the need for sustainable development.

5. Ability to act ethically as a professional financial executive.

6. Ability to practice interpersonal and communication skills effectively with colleagues, employer, customers and the public.

7. Identify and solve work-related problems as well as formulate effective and timely decisions in the area of comparative financial management.

8. Ability to act effectively as an individual and in multi-disciplinary teams, with innovation, leadership, managerial and entrepreneurial thoughts and action.

9. Practice lifelong learning and acquire the capacity to do so by adhering to a continuous professional development approach.
